

GREAT SPLENDOR AT MADERO'S BALL

It Is Given in Honor of Victorious Rebel Chief at Juarez.

BEGINS JOURNEY TO-DAY

Great Precautions Taken to Prevent Accident on Way to Capital.

Juarez, Mexico, June 1.—On the eve of his departure for Mexico City to assume responsibilities incurred by the success of the revolution, Francisco I. Madero, Jr., to-night attended the formal ball given in the custom house, where two years ago President Diaz in great splendor received President Taft. Those who arranged the ball attempted to outdo the magnificence which surrounded President Diaz.

Leading a grand march, Senor Madero, whom many look upon as likely to be the next regularly elected president of Mexico, tramped over the waxed floors beneath a hower of flags and bunting, and among a bewildering mass of standards and white columns.

Many Americans mingled in the crowd and shared with Senor Madero and his former provisional officers the honors of a typical Latin-American festivity.

The insurrecto leader intends to leave Juarez at 11:30 A. M. to-morrow for Mexico City, going by way of Eagle Pass, Texas. His route from Eagle Pass is to be in a special train to Torreon, Zacatecas and Aguas Calientes. It is believed he will reach Mexico City on Wednesday.

Extraordinary precautions will be taken for the safety of Senor Madero, a thorough inspection of railroad tracks is to be made and a pilot train is to proceed Madero's special to look for any dynamite mine or for any bands of deserters from the insurrecto army, who might plan to burn bridges.

Rebels Invade El Paso.
El Paso, Tex., June 1.—Eight hundred armed insurrectos, headed by Francisco I. Madero, and an insurrecto band playing Mexican and American airs, invaded El Paso to-day. It was the first time a large body of insurrectos had crossed the United States border.

The occasion was the presentation to El Paso of "Long Tom," a cannon captured by the insurrectos and used in the battle at Juarez.

Mounted on horses and garbed in brilliant Mexican colors and sombreros, the insurrectos marched through the business streets. Great crowds on the housetops greeted them with shouts of "Viva Madero."

The cannon was given to the city as a recompense for "McGinty's blue whistler," which was stolen from the City Park during the war and used in the siege of Ojinaga. Speeches in Spanish and English alternated in the expression of future friendship between the two countries when the cannon was presented.

Controversy Aroused.
Mexico City, June 1.—General Porfirio Diaz, in taking leave of Mexico, was unwittingly the cause of a controversy, which promises to lead to a military investigation, if reports current to-day are well founded.

An afternoon paper is authority for the statement that the firing of a presidential salute and the playing of the national hymn as the former President boarded the steamer which is to carry him to Europe, created great excitement in military circles. The act of Federal soldiers, who lined the path by which General Diaz and his party went to the steamer, in standing at "present arms" is also cited as an infraction of army regulations, inasmuch as the departing warrior is now only a commander in the army. The army ordinance prescribes that the national hymn shall be played only in the presence of the President of the republic.

The fact that its rendition is reported to have been a feature of the honors accorded General Diaz at Vera Cruz, together with the other military honors, is said to be regarded as a serious infraction of army rules, and an inquiry is alleged to be contemplated to determine who was responsible.

Culpeper Wins Again.
[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Culpeper, Va., June 1.—Culpeper wins again. The Bradlock Baseball Club of Washington was defeated to-day by the Culpeper team by the score of 12 to 3. Bradlock batteries Benton and Lip and Green; Culpeper Strother and Cottingham.

Will Visited by Fire.
Anderson, S. C., June 1.—Fire of unknown origin practically destroyed the entire business section of Iva, this county, early this morning. The loss is estimated at $100,000, with small insurance. Iva has no fire protection.

TRIBUTE IS PAID TO HEROIC DEAD

Fiftieth Anniversary of First Land Engagement of Civil War Observed.

GATHERING AT FAIRFAX

Governor Mann and Other Prominent Virginians Take Part in Exercises.

Fairfax, Va., June 1.—To reverently observe the fiftieth anniversary of the first land engagement of the Civil War, to do honor to the memory of Captain John Quincy Marr, C. S. A., the first man to fall in the four years' struggle, and to fittingly commemorate the deeds of the Confederate forces, which operated in that vicinity, the citizens of Fairfax Courthouse and of Fairfax county in general, to-day held simple, but impressive exercises at the ancient colonial town.

With Governor William H. Mann, Lieutenant-Governor J. Taylor Ellison, Major Robert W. Hunter, R. A. Moore, Robert E. Lee, Jr., Colonel Thomas Smith and many other prominent Virginians in the speakers' stand, a section of the United States Fifteenth Cavalry Band in attendance, besides other features of minor importance, 5,000 staunch Virginians, with Confederate leanings, celebrated the anniversary of a day in their history which is rife with a full meaning to all.

R. Walton Moore acted as chairman of the gathering. Maj. Robt. W. Hunter, orator of the day, spoke for nearly an hour and a half, reviewing the history of Fairfax Courthouse from the time when General George Washington fled his will to the present.

A recess was then taken for dinner, which was served by the women of the town.

J. Taylor Ellison, Lieutenant-Governor of Virginia, was the first speaker of the afternoon. He was followed by Colonel Thomas Smith, of Warrenton, son of William Smith, better known to Virginians as "Extra Billy Smith," one of the war Governors of the State. Colonel Smith spoke in reminiscent vein, having served as colonel in the Confederate Army himself.

The speech of Colonel William A. Gordon, of Warrenton, was of the same character. Extract from a Woman's Diary.

At this juncture in the program Mr. Moore read an extract from the diary kept, he said, by a woman who lived in a house which was in the very center of the night at Fairfax fifty years ago. The simple words of the diary described the engagement, and told how the writer stood through the night, in her darkened house, holding her baby, son in her arms, while the bullets of the Federal forces rained upon the building.

As Mr. Moore concluded his reading of the extract, Colonel Gordon addressed the audience, and stated that the writer of the diary just read was Mr. Moore's mother, and that the child referred to in the text was Mr. Moore himself, his age at that time being only two or three years.

R. E. Lee, Jr., grandson of the leader of the Confederate forces, was the last speaker. Mr. Lee told many anecdotes of the war as related to him by his father, and other Confederate generals.

Led by Dr. W. P. Moncure, chief marshal of the day, a procession was formed and marched to the cemetery, where Confederate soldiers are buried. The monument to the dead soldiers was decorated with flowers, donated by the women of the village.

Taps was then sounded by the bugler, and the entire company filed out of the cemetery with the exception of a few old men who lingered by the side of the graves of their departed comrades.

Troubled For Years

Cardui Helped So Much

Those symptoms, that you do not understand, are very likely due, if you are a woman, to womanly trouble. Frequently, such disorders are so insidious, that no special local pain is experienced, but just a general feeling of misery, all over, and a nervous, irritable depression, that has driven many ladies to desperation.

In such cases, Cardui, the woman's tonic, can be depended on to bring relief and renewed interest in life. Being a strengthening, building woman's tonic, Cardui renews the vital forces, invigorates the womanly organs, and puts strength where women need it most.

Mrs. Mabel Hashenbarger, of Larkin, Kansas, says: "Before I tried Cardui, I suffered greatly, especially with inflammation. It troubled me for some years. Cardui helped me so much, and I am so thankful!"

Cardui, the woman's tonic, has been tested for womanly ills, for more than 50 years, and has been found to be a successful, curative treatment, by women, who had tried other treatments, which failed.

Cardui is a purely vegetable extract, possessing no harmful properties, and acts specifically and curatively on the womanly constitution. Cardui is strongly recommended to young and old, for the treatment of all forms of womanly troubles.

If you are afflicted with any form of womanly weakness or disease, lose no time, but benefit by the example of thousands of other women, who have used this remarkable remedy for troubles similar to your own.

All druggists sell Cardui, with full directions for use. Try it.
